Hello,

I've read through the document containing NACOL recommendations for civilian oversight of the police force. They all seem like sensible policies, and necessary changes as important first steps restore community confidence in policing. I wholeheartedly support the creation of a civilian oversight board, and support my tax money being redirected to support it.

I consider us especially responsible given the mortifying inequities between the quality of life in our community for Black residents compared with those who are white. I want to be a member of a city that leads the way on police reform and becomes a model for the rest of the country.

Thank you,
Megan Syverson
