Hi,

I wanted to voice my support for the Madison Public Market. I think it is crucial to support projects like this if Madison is going to continue to grow in ways that preserve the qualities that make it a great city to live in. We already have too many chains and big brands present in the city, diluting its character. We need to support projects that give small businesses and creatives the opportunity to thrive in Madison and keep it wonderful and unique. We say that we value local and indie; funding the public market is our opportunity to put our money where our mouth is. The investment will pay back a thousand fold, by encouraging Madisonians to spend money on businesses who keep that money in the local economy, and keep Madison's soul intact. We also need to be looking at projects that make Madison an appealing and unique place for people to settle down. No one cares if their community gets a new Starbucks or Old Navy. If we don't support local makers and creatives, the deep pockets of these national brands will always win out. Please support the Public Market and help keep Madison Weird.

Thank you for your consideration,

Ashley Campbell

Subject: Use of TIF for Public Market
Date: Sunday, November 13, 2022 6:09:42 PM

Caution: This email was sent from an external source. Avoid unknown links and attachments.

The decades-long financial history of the proposed Public Market is marked by the almost tripling of costs from $7 million to a minimum of $20 million and with it, the assumption of an increasing burden on the city to come up with most, if not all, of the money.

Private donors which were once expected to contribute $3 million have made commitments of only about $1 million despite hiring fundraising consultants and events paid by the city. (Compare this to the Center for Black Excellence, Centro Hispano, One-City Schools that collectively have raised tens of millions in a few years.)

Nor have the expected millions from a variety of federal and state sources come to fruition.

One indicator of the trouble in finding funders is that the most current business plan (2020) has no information on the financing of the project. Clearly, after more than a decade, the proponents do not know who- other than the city- might finance the project.

Now, given the failure to attract public or private financing, the new strategy is to use $7 million in TIF for the city to build the Public Market. I believe that this is an illegal use of TIF. § 66.1105(2)(f)(2)(a), Wis. Stat., states that the following are prohibited uses of TIF:

The cost of constructing or expanding administrative buildings, police and fire buildings, libraries, community and recreational buildings and school buildings...

A 2003 opinion of the Madison City Attorney noted, “Regrettably TIF funds cannot be used to finance community related structures (mentioned above). In addition, the buildings and structures noted (community buildings) would all fit within the definition of public buildings (which are disallowed).”

In 2015, our late City Attorney, Michael May, opined that the Public Market could be financed by TIF funds because it was not a “community center” in the sense of a recreation such as Bayview or Boys and Girls Club. Adding “center” rather than the statutory “buildings” helps reach the desired conclusion. Undoubtedly, if the legislature had anticipated that a city would consider building a food emporium, it would have added it to the laundry list of structures.

This incredibly narrow definition of “community buildings” ignores the three volumes of business plans and p.r. materials published by the city staff and committee members- all of which states over and over that this building is for “the community. Indeed, in the most recent business plan (2020), the word “community” appears 47 times.

Clearly, if the public market is financed, constructed, owned and controlled by the city it is a “city building” whether it is used for recreation or food services. This is no different than the Water Utility or Monona Terrace which are city “enterprises” that were built without TIF dollars and do not pay rental costs (but pay nominal PILOT fees). If the enterprise was no longer financially viable, the ownership and operation would revert to the city.

Before the city embarks in this questionable direction, it would be prudent to request the opinion of the Attorney General on the legality of the proposal. Alternatively, it might be subject to a legal challenge with an unknown result.

Best regards,

David Ahrens

Hey there!

I can't figure out how to support / oppose an agenda item on the website (it's very confusing!) but wanted to email to say that I am in favor of the Public Market and hope that the funding is available. I think this project is important for our community and I also think it would be a real shame if the businesses who thought they were going to be part of the Market were just dropped if the Market doesn't exist. I know so many of the vendors are folks with marginalized identities—what are we saying to those communities if we don't value their businesses?

Thanks so much for your time and I hope the Market gets the funding it needs! Please support it (and forward this email to whoever would have seen it if I had registered for the meeting?).

Warmly,
Ashley Annis

How many housing units have just gone in or are scheduled to be built within a 2 mile radius of the proposed market? The answer - a lot! Let's create a stable employment platform for our local food vendors and create much needed the hungry hordes moving in to the neighborhood.

Money will always be short. It's time to move ahead with this market!

Dear alders:

I urge you not to add more dollars to the public market budget.

As we all strive to assure that everyone can live, play and work in Madison in a time of increasing costs at all levels, this huge additional investment not only feels unnecessary but adds little overall value to most citizens. It's a "nice to have" when there are people struggling daily for food and housing. Additional dollars to a public market add nothing to meeting the basic needs of so many.

The project has consistently struggled to attain funding from a diverse array of sources and has struggled to stay in its budget parameters.

Please say no to additional funding, ask the market to manage its future in a smaller budget.

Thank you for your deliberations on yet another knotty issue!

Dear alders,

I thought that the public market at First & Johnson was a done deal with a solid timeline, pending of course finding a location for the men's shelter, which is now also done. I've been looking forward to this valuable asset opening soon.

The public market will showcase small, growing local businesses. It will be a walkable destination for a neighborhood where there's a lot of dense housing already, and more going up soon. But it will also be an asset for the whole city, being very accessible by transit and bike, and an attraction for visitors from out of town too.

I've seen places like this all over the world, and the benefit they are to their communities. The Milwaukee Public Market continues to be popular, for good reason. The North Market in Columbus is another great example, bringing vitality to downtown. This kind of place is always on my radar when I travel. I've even been to an indoor market like this in Olot, Spain, a city of 34,000 people. It's something Madison deserves too.

The market needs a bit more investment to get over the finish line, and Dane County has already pitched in a share. Now it's up to the city to close the funding gap. Once this gets built out, it's expected to be a revenue generator, we just have to get there first.

Thank you,

Nick Davies

While I have supported the idea of a public market for Madison, I now see it as something that would be nice, but not a priority for the city. We have more important things to address and to fund. A public market is a luxury and not a need. There are by far greater needs in our community. Also, I fear that it will become a financial albatross around taxpayers' necks. Hello, Alders,

I urge you to support additional financing so that the Madison Public Market can go from a long-worked-for dream to a reality. 1 A Madison Public Market would be a draw for tourists. Other cities' public markets Seattle comes first to mind, but also those in European cities are always a draw for me as a tourist. Like going to the Dane County Farmer's Market in the summer, tourists get a sense of the regional foods available, the kinds of produce, meat, fish, and baked goods that people in this community value, and even get to taste a variety of baked goods and dishes that various ethnic groups specialize in. 2 The Public Market would be an economic engine for the city and the county, providing another tourist destination for visitors even in the winter, and providing an economic outlet for local farmers, bakers, cooks, and chefs to sell their wares. 3 It would provide another community space for people of different ethnic backgrounds to meet and share food always a winning combination. 4 The bottom line is that a Madison Public Market would be a terrific addition to this fast-growing, diverse community, and another way to bring us all together. I hope you will vote to include sufficient funding for it in the city budget so that it will actually get built. Sincerely, Laura Gottlieb

The Public Market is an important investment in Madison's grassroots entrepreneurs - particularly women entrepreneurs and entrepreneurs of color. Most of our Market Ready cohort of entrepreneurs looking to be Public Market vendors are women and/or entrepreneurs of color.

Dear City of Madison Alders,

I am writing to ask for your vote in support of the proposed budget amendment concerning the addition of funds for the Public Market at tonight's meeting of the Common Council. As a resident of Emerson East for over 20 years and neighbor to the proposed Public Market, I strongly support the Public Market. Our neighborhood association has been a consistent advocate for the Public Market. Emerson East should not be underestimated for our ability to support the Public Market, welcoming people of all backgrounds, ages and cultures to enjoy the goodness of food, art and humanity. I hope you will allow the vision for this incredible resource to become reality, for the benefit of all. Please support the proposed budget amendment.

Thank you very much for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Hello,

I strongly support the use of city funds to support the creation of the Madison Public Market. I believe the public market would enhance many aspects of living in the city including an opportunity for new entrepreneurs to gain a foothold in sharing their products with the public. With the tremendous growth of housing along the East Washington corridor, the Public market would provide a new walking destination and bring vibrancy to the area.

Thank you for your consideration.

Hello, I am writing to voice my support for addending the 2023 Capital Budget to support gap funding for Madison's Public Market. The Market is years in the making and would bring new commerce and activity to an already emerging community with easy bike and car access, and it would be a shame to lose the funds already raised for this purpose. On a more personal note, I've watched the area evolve over the years and I've been excited and hopeful to see this opportunity for communal and convivial commerce come together, especially in this area that previously has felt somewhat stagnant. I would love to see it come to fruition and committing to this purpose would demonstrate the alders' commitment to Madison's community as a whole.

Please consider this view as you meet tonight to consider the budget. Thank you!

Dear City of Madison Alders.

As the new Executive Director at REAP Food Group, I am emailing to support the Madison Public Market funding amendment. The market has such potential to provide the space for new and exciting opportunities for all people especially vendors from under represented communities. The market also has the opportunity to add to a more equitable food system.

To my city's leaders:

I've been vending at the Dane County Farmers' Market on the Capitol Square for over 20 years. I also served on the DCFM's board of directors for several years. That market grew organically over the last 45 years and has created an ecosystem of Wisconsin-based businesses and a tourism draw that is unparalleled in the Madison area. It started with a permit from the Capitol Police to vend on Pinckney St.

I grew up in Royal Oak, Mi which has a public market similar to what is proposed at 1st and Johnson. That market also grew organically over an even longer time period and its neighborhood was my family's source for the best fresh pita, olives, dolmas, etc. in that part of Detroit.

I think that in order to be successful, we can force the Madison Public Market to be successful. It needs to start small and grow as our community learns to value and support it.

I encourage you not to provide any additional funding for the Madison Public Market. The Market can start smaller with the existing funding. There are other more needy issues that we need to address in our city.

best, Bob

I'm writing to you in the hope that you will remain steadfast in rejecting proposals for additional funding for the public market.

With the Madison Public Market showing a funding gap of over 5 million, it's time to withdraw city support for this venture. Former Mayor David Cieslewicz, in this op-ed for Isthmus magazine, does a good job articulating why our community should refrain from spending taxpayer funds on the market, <https://isthmus.com/opinion/citizen-dave/do-we-really-need-a-public-market/>. In this time of massive expenditures requiring the support of already stretched Madison homeowners, increasing inflation, and rising construction costs, the public market should be viewed as a luxury the city simply cannot afford. Our community already enjoys numerous and vibrant farmers markets located throughout the city, as well as food trucks, and swaths of underutilized commercial and retail space. It remains unclear why the Madison Public Market is needed.

Dear alders,

Please vote in favor of the amendment to save the Madison Public Market. Three alders have proposed using TID #36 funding to finally get the Market built. This occurs on top of the $1.5 M allocation just passed by the Dane County board. Without Common Council approval of the amendment, it is unlikely the Market will be built. Ever.

Please support the market to support small businesses, the arts, and promote equity and diversity. It will be a welcome addition to the eastside of Madison.

Hey everyone!

I just want to tell you how BIG a supporter I am of the plan for a Public Market in Madison. I travel a LOT with my work and the cities with Public Markets just shine! It's such a huge draw! Every convention in a town with a market has always been more fun. They get the community together, support local businesses and bring in crowds for meals, shopping local souvenirs and gifts...more!!

I know my address tells you I don't live in the City of Madison, but I want you to know that I will be supporting this Market when it gets here! Please invest in the Market. Madison will shine brighter because of it!

Thumbs up!

Dear Alders,

We have a chance to do something amazing—Something special for the east side and the city of Madison. A special place, close to downtown that will help to continue to bring in new people, businesses, and exciting energy to the city. Over the last 15 years people have put their blood, sweat, and tears into making the Madison Public Market a reality. The market would give back to the Emerson neighborhood. A neighborhood that is often neglected, especially after supporting the temporary mens homeless shelter through the pandemic. The citizens of that neighborhood deserve development from the city. MPM would be in the perfect location and you as alders can help Madison make history. Please please vote to keep the public market. You won't regret it.

Sincerely,
Travis

Dear Members:

Given the many presenting funding issues first priority - for the jail facing our city, I would urge the Council to not approve money for the Madison Public Market. I don't see the need for such an endeavor, and think private funding should be secured by anyone hoping to start a business. Please scrap the idea! It's been how long in the making, and they still haven't made a go of it. When I went to the preview visits of the market, I was sorely disappointed -the same people and things that you typically see at any summer neighborhood festival. When I explain this to people they are very surprised. Every one thinks including me in the beginning that it's going to be a year-round farmers' market or like Milwaukee's Public Market. Not so. Put city money into something more beneficial.

Dear City of Madison Alders,

I am a resident of District 17 and would like to strongly express my support for the addition of 6M of TID proceeds from TID 36 to the Madison Public Market capital project. The Madison Public Market project is years in the making and is a project that our community has repeatedly expressed support for through the years. The Madison Public Market is poised to make real and quantifiable advances in social justice and social equity by providing extraordinary opportunities for minority owned businesses and entrepreneurs. I urge you to fund the Madison Public Market at the full proposed 6M level to ensure no further economic hurdles arise and help this project reach its full potential. The Madison Public Market will contribute back to our community in economic and social returns that far outweigh the financial investment that you are being asked to support.

My family lives at 1224 Sherman Ave, Madison, WI 53703. We've been in the neighborhood nearly 20 years. We support the Public Market and would love to see it move forward. Every time I go to Philadelphia, I visit Reading Terminal Market and I'd love to see our own version on the East Side. This is an important time, economically, for that corridor and I think it's money and energy well spent.

Thank you,
Matt and Ashley Schaefer (and family)

Dear Alders,

Greetings. I will be unable to attend tonight's meeting, but I wish to register my support for approving additional funding for Madison's public market.

My family makes holiday trips twice a year to Cleveland's public market - an amazing and vibrant space that is worth the hour's drive from the family home. To think that Madison is on the threshold of having our own -- about two blocks away from our house on Dayton Street -- is exciting and inspirational.

In 2013, my wife and I chose to live in Madison, to buy a house, to raise our children, to put down our roots, precisely because it has not yet lost the vision and value of investing in community and the public like so many other cities we've lived in. This project is evidence of that spirit. We can do bold things that make living life in Madison better.

I believe a $5 million gap is no reason to halt this 14-year project, and that future generations of Madisonians will appreciate the courage it took to make it happen on their behalf -- the same way we all are grateful for the past investments that make life in Madison so rich.

Let us keep our commitments -- not just to the women and BIPOC vendors who took the city's word and have been preparing to be "Market Ready", even enduring the complications of COVID -- not just to the many other sources of $14M in financial support for the market -- but to ourselves, and the vision of what Madison can be, who we are, and what we can make it.

Please vote in support of the supplemental funding amendment to keep our commitments and make this market happen, for us and future generations.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Jake Schlachter

Hello,

I am writing in support of The River.

I have been a volunteer since January of 2019. Because I am still working 40+ hours per week, I am not able to volunteer as often as I would like to, but I'm a regular Saturday volunteer and I use some of my paid time off from work each year to put in hours at The River.

Why? Why do I spend my hard-earned vacation time volunteering? Primarily, it feels great. The time that I put in at The River fills my heart. Interactions with clients lift my spirit. Doing good feels good. Every smile or laugh or tears that I share with the clients is something I carry with me every day.

Secondarily, The River's services are needed. They are necessary.

The River staff can give you all of the statistics. They know the number of families and individuals who are served each day, each week, each month and each year.

I don't know those numbers. What I know is what The River's clients tell me every single Saturday. I hear things like:

"We are starving. We have nothing in the cupboards."

"I don't know what I would do without you guys."

"I lost my job and you guys helped me survive by allowing me to spend my money on other bills and not food."

"I am so thankful for you."

"Because of these groceries today, I am going to take my son on a picnic and that's going to mean so much to him."

"I didn't know how I was going to eat today."

Sometimes, if you and your family are not struggling, it can be easy to overlook the struggles of others. The River will open your eyes.

There is the woman who works 7 days a week, raising several children, including an autistic son who will only eat muffins and chips. There is the woman trying to hold it together for her family while her husband is out of work due to a pending hip replacement surgery. There is the man whose uncle recently passed and who is driving back and forth to Chicago each weekend to help family, spending money on gas that he does not have. There is the veteran and his wife who recently also picked up groceries for their son and 2 grandchildren who have fallen on hard times. There is the UW-Madison research student who doesn't have enough money for food. There is the woman who lives in her car with her support dog.

They all need the services that The River provides...and many of them also just want someone to see them, to hear them.

I hope that you do. I hope that you will.

The amount of services provided by The River's staff and volunteers is staggering. New services have been added since the Pandemic. Something that would provide a real boost to all of the services would be a larger space. Every available corner of the current building is in use. It seems that things are constantly being moved around to try to maximize space and to be as efficient as possible in cramped quarters.

I see so much drive and ingenuity in The River's staff and I think we would all be astounded by what they could accomplish with a larger building.

A larger warehouse would, I think, allow designated areas for everything, making it easier for volunteers (and staff) to find things. If items were able to have designated spaces (pet food, for example), it would be easier to provide these things to clients.

Additionally, if The River had it's own parking lot, I think it would be so much easier to manage client traffic. In the current location, sharing a parking lot with other businesses means that The River's clients are often "in the way.". Through no fault of their own, just by being in line for help, there is congestion and sometimes frustration. This can draw staff and/or volunteer time away from other tasks, just to manage traffic.

If the city of Madison shows its support for The River, it will demonstrate that we ARE the community that I know we want to be. The River staff and volunteers are dedicated to helping people and it would be great to see Madison show that same dedication towards The River's goal: a fully nourished community.

Thank you for your time and your consideration,

Brinnan Shaffer

Madison has an opportunity to fix a very fiscally, and functionally, challenged Public Market project at 1st and E Johnson...and the solution is NOT putting more Taxpayer money into it at tonight's Budget meeting...but making a BETTER Project.

The Solution is to pause the project, hit reset on what would be the 'Best Future' for the Market and begin pursuit of a MIXED USE Project that includes a new Amtrak Station and an Air Rights Residential Project above it that has MANY affordable units that we need! All Three Users would pool great Financial capacity to do it right and make a true statement Project at the site...maximizing Functionality, draw, transit use #project #money #money , economy and more! We only get ONE shot to do this site right. A GREAT Mixed Use project that fulfills so MANY Madison ambitions is the right choice. I suggest to the Cap Times Editorial board add a subtitle to this editorial..."...by including it in a great Mixed Use Project package that includes our new Amtrak station and great Housing Project above it that we need."

I wholeheartedly support the funding for the Madison Public Market! This would be a wonderful asset to living here in Madison and hopefully bring our community together in many ways. We need more venues where our diverse population comes together...right now I can only think of a few things, one of them being Dane Dances and the music festivals in town during the summer...but still the population represented at many of the public events is mainly white. Please bring the Market to Madison...we need something like this..Thanks for your time..

Hello Alder Madison,

My name is Monica Wahlberg, I am the new Director of Development for The River Food Pantry. I'm reaching out to ask your support at Tuesday night's Common Council meeting's amendment in support of The River receiving $1 million.

During the pandemic, I was laid off from a community art center here in Madison. Through the Dane Co. workforce development's COVID work program, they placed me at The River for 20 hours per week with a stipend working in the kitchen. After nine weeks, I still didn't have a new position, so I volunteered until I was hired. Once here, I found out that I could sign up to receive food myself. Used to being in the middle-income bracket, I was used to volunteering and donating to social/civic organizations like The River but had never received their services before. It just didn't even occur to me to ask for food, even though I was not paying electric, water, cell phone, and other bills so I could go grocery shopping! The River helped not only feed my body, but they also fed my soul through their engagement. I was able to take some of the food given to me and can it, thus, creating Christmas presents that year of peach and apple butters and pickled cauliflower, brussels sprouts, green beans, and onions. This meant a tremendous amount to me and my family!

Recently, I saw their open position for a Development Director, and I knew that I had to apply. I've been working in fund development for over 15 years. I wanted to give back and help move this organization forward. The last two weeks have been a whirlwind learning the ins & outs to all their programs; some new to when I was here not too long ago. Some of the things I'm learning about is how the building we are currently working out of is falling apart around us; our lease is up in 2024 and we are not sure our landlord will even renew as we have had some difficulty; we don't have enough electricity to plug in the coolers/freezers we need to store donated food items; many of our staff do not have dedicated workspaces, I'm working from a table we dug up and many of our staff have carved out work areas; there is not enough parking for staff nor volunteers; when we are really busy, the market line will often times backup onto Packer's Drive and we have to try and double or triple line the cars so that doesn't happen as we have been warned not to do this by our landlord and the city; they used to serve a mid-day meal in a dining room but that closed during COVID, they would like to restart this program but that floor space has filled in with shelving for food items; I could go on.

I live on the other side of the airport from The River in your district #17, which is why I'm writing to you to support this organization. Each day last week from Wednesday – Saturday, I sent to the allalders email address signed notes from 415 of our clients asking for the alders to support The River. I hope you have taken the time to record these. This vote is timely as we are hoping to utilize the County's pledge of $1.5M and the city's $1M to purchase land that would keep us on the northside of Madison. This would kick-off our capital campaign for the new facility – more than just a building.

If you haven't been through The River for a tour, please contact me and I would love to take you around and share more about this place and its people. Till then, please vote in support of the amendment for $1M from the city's budget to support The River on Tuesday.

Thank you,

Alders,

We are writing in support of the Madison Public Market, and urge you to represent the wishes of your constituents and vote in favor of funding it.

As we're sure you're aware,

- Over 30 MarketReady vendors (a City program) prepared for years for a Public Market to launch their dreams of entrepreneurship. 82% of vendors are people of color, 62% women, 33% first generation immigrants.
- Nearly 230+ new and established businesses have submitted interest forms for vending in the Market. Over 40% are minority-owned businesses.
- The Market will serve 100 businesses every year
- The City and the Madison Public Market Foundation have raised $14 million in funds, of which, half cannot be redirected resulting in millions in lost opportunity.
- The Fleet Building stands empty and is waiting for renewed energy and economic activity

We live in the neighborhood immediately adjacent to the market and have been looking forward to the redevelopment of this long neglected and beautiful space along the Yahara.

Dane County's support is evidence that the Market is a regional asset that will be valuable to local food producers, processors, and vendors.

I think Monona Terrace was the last County support of a City project and that turned out okay.

I served on Madison's Local Food Policy Committee and the Public Market Committee for several years. The study, analysis, and plans for the Market were pursued professionally and thoroughly by top notch City staff and consultants. The site and building are most suited for a successful Market. It will promote further worthwhile development in the East Washington corridor and will anchor such re-development extending to the north.

More importantly the Market's outreach to and support of the vendors and processors who'll work in the building has been a model of focused inclusion and equity. Thanks in part to that effort many folks of color and modest means have worked hard and long to better their lives and enrich our community by preparing to participate in the Market. They have relied on the City's promises and commitments to build the Market in spending their money and time to seize what they believe will be the opportunity of a lifetime. The City should honor its commitment.

The development of the East Washington corridor has been exciting and lucrative for many. I'm not at all sure, however, that the folks who most need economic opportunity have been able to partake in those benefits. The Public Market will enable some hard-working Madison residents to share in that booming part of our local economy.

Thank you for your consideration of this request and thank you for your hard work on the 2023 City budget.

Hello:

I oppose additional funding of public market for two reasons:

- 1) Location - this is a poor choice that will create additional non-point source pollution as the river is so close. It would have been best situated in area by Sylvee off of E. Main St.
- 2) Gentrification - Does not include infrastructure to house very low income people and may further push lower income renters out of area.

Hello alders,

Thanks for all you do. I am emailing to say that we need to stop spending money on the public market in it's current form. I live in this district, we do not need this. Put it the Braxton Lot, put the money into BRT or expand the Feed Kitchen. There are so many more important things to spend our tax money on. We have Jenny St, Willy Street, and Festival all within proximity. This does nothing to expand grocery access for Darbo. This is the kind of cute project that we love to waste money on. Let it die.

Hi Alders,

thanks for welcoming me into your space last night, it's been a minute! I wanted to thank you for hearing me out on the promise of the public market and why it's an essential investment in our values.

Wishing you well on the second night of your session.

And btw, for goodness sakes, I insist you increase your pay :) Yours is a difficult, consuming job. This taxpayer is all for something approaching fair compensation for the work you do.

Dear Alders,

I just wanted to register my heartfelt support for Amendment #3 and the Public Market.

I hope you will support this. The vision for this has been very inspiring.

Thank you,

As a 45-year resident of the city, I heartily support the budget amendment to get the long-awaited Madison Public Market across the finish line. Let's do this for the good of our very special community. Now!

Sincerely,
Tom Sinclair
