Owners Re-Design 3701 Council Crest

November 6, 2023

The City Adjusted the Lot Line to Create A Larger Lot For A New House

- ❑ This Commission approved a Certificate of Appropriateness to adjust the lot line so a new house could be built.
- ❑ The Plan Commission recommended a Certified Survey Map which would “reconfigure the two underlying lots to create a larger lot for a future residence to be constructed on the Council Crest side of the property.”
- ❑ The Common Council adopted the Plan Commission recommendation by a vote of 17-1.

The Re-Design Complies With The Commission's August 14 Guidance

- ❑ The Commission agreed that our initial design fit into the neighborhood, but commented that it was “too big for its landmark neighbor.”

- ❑ The Commission requested that we submit a redesign with two specific recommendations:
 - ✓ Reduce the width by approximately 8 to 10 feet

 - ✓ Create a 20 foot set-back from the lot line as measured at the end of Spring Trail

We Reduced the Width by Almost 10'

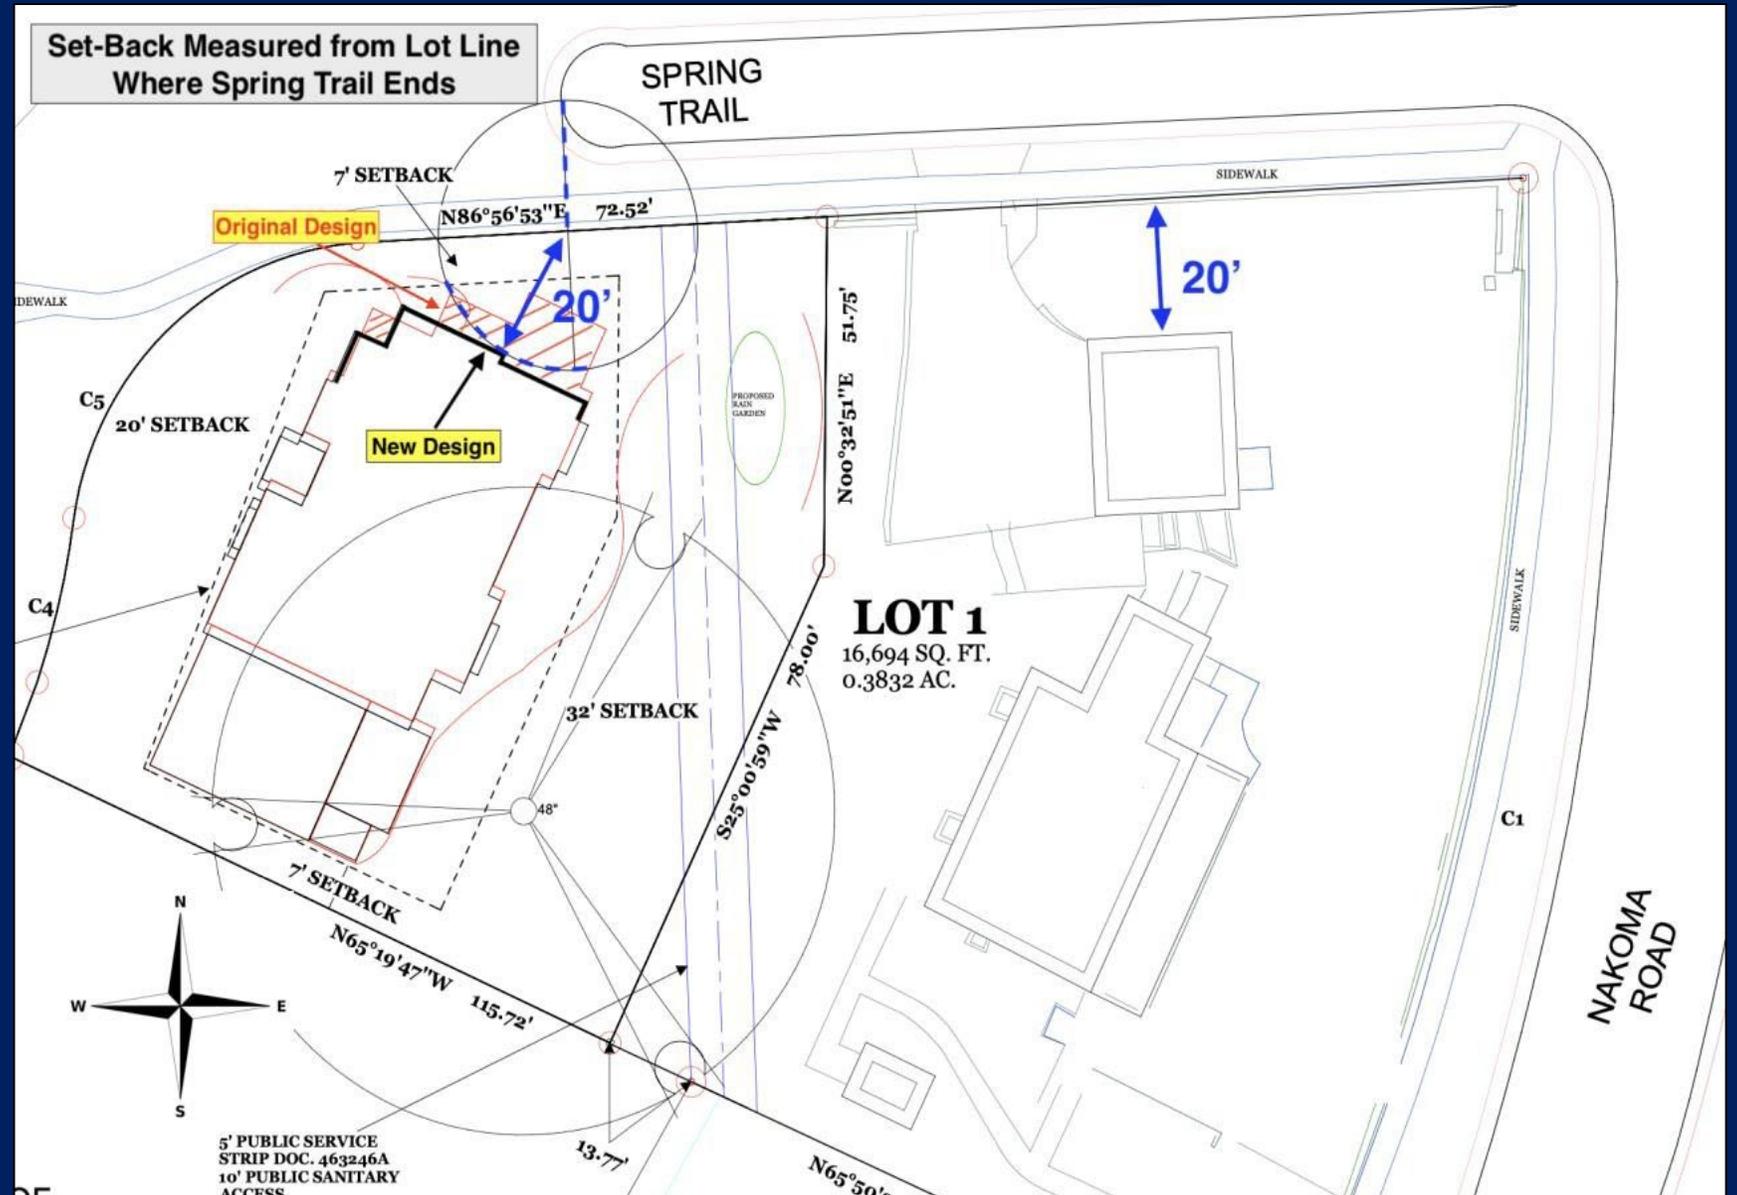

East Elevation - Original Design

East Elevation - Redesign

We Created a 20 Foot Set-Back from the Lot Line Where Spring Trail Ends

The Only Important Landscape Feature to the Tavern Landmark is the Large Spring Across Nakoma Road (now known as the Duck Pond)

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE: The Old Spring Tavern is significant both for its history and its architecture. Charles C. Morgan built the house in 1854 with brick made from clay found on a nearby slope. Morgan was a businessman who, in partnership with capitalist James W. Gorham, judged the site to be a perfect stopping place on the old Madison-Monroe stagecoach road which led to southwestern Wisconsin's lead mining area. The site's major asset was a large spring behind the house (in its original siting) which served to water horses and oxen. In 1860 Morgan sold the inn and sixty acres to Gorham for $9,000 in gold, and it became known as "Gorham's Hotel." Soon thereafter, Gorham joined the Union cause in the Civil War and leased the inn. After the war he returned and continued "Gorham's Hotel" until 1895, when he closed the business and used the building as a private residence. Originally, the old stage road passed to the northwest of the house in what is now its rear yard, and later between the house and the drainage into Lake Wingra. In 1925 the house was sold by G. Dickson, who undertook major story Chippendale porch on what The Dickson family also built a Nakoma Road. Mrs. Dickson recently by and built under the supervision of the John Bell Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution placed on the wall a plaque which reads, "Old Spring Tavern. Stage Coach Station On Road To Early Lead Mines. Home of Gorham Family 1860-1922. Built 1854." Architecturally, the house is an excellent local example of the Greek Revival style, examples of which are very rare in the City of Madison. Its pinkish brick also is rare locally, most masonry houses in Madison having been built with buff sandstone or cream-colored brick. On March 20, 1972, the Old Spring Tavern was designated a landmark by the City of Madison Landmarks Commission.

The surrounding landscape was not identified as significant to the landmark

The only landscape feature mentioned as a major asset to the landmark was the large spring across Nakoma Road, now known as the Duck Pond.

VII. (7) Significance of Nominated Property and Conformance to Designation Criteria:

It is a tribute to the architectural importance of the Old Spring Tavern that it is featured in Rexford Newcomb's book, Architecture of the Old Northwest Territory, as a prime example of a Greek Revival Inn in Wisconsin.

The tavern, or Gorham's Hotel, was built in 1854 by Charles E. Morgan, a prominent businessman. In a partnership venture with James W. Gorham, (who supplied capital for brick-making equipment & contributed meals for overnight guests), Morgan judged the property to be a perfect stopping place between the lead-mining district of SW Wis., and the growing capitol, Madison. Its supreme asset was a great spring across the road, (now a duck pond) to water horses and oxen. Indians must have thought the spring a place of particular significance, because six prehistoric mounds were found on the property, each containing a skeleton & artifacts, including copper knives. The artifacts went to the State Historical collection in the first capitol building, & perished in its fire. In historic times the Winnebago had a village on the ridge behind the tavern, and a trail ran through the woods on the slope of the hill. In 1860 Morgan sold the inn & 60 surrounding acres to Gorham for $9000 in gold. Soon afterward, Gorham leased the inn & left Wisconsin to serve the Union Army in the First Regiment of the Berdan Sharpshooters. He returned later & maintained "Gorham's Hotel" until 1895, when the services of the inn were discontinued & the Gorham family took up residence in it until 1922. The inn was a rendezvous of mail carriers & stage drivers on the pioneer Madison-Monroe Rd., one of 18 territorial roads made territorial capitol in 1836. Back of the house, that being the register has been lost, it is claimed to have been there while travelling. Governor Gorham for oyster suppers, and soldiers were here. Later university students had been here. She recalled that her husband & Senator Stephens had come to the Spring Tavern many times when they came to Madison to sample "Grandma" Gorham's coffee & pastries.

In 1939, the house was sold to the State of Wisconsin by Professor The Dickson family on the east wall around the house. The house was designed by the architect in 1854. The house was designed in 1854, period was with antiques. During World War II Mrs. Stephens maintained a Red Cross workshop in her home, creating more than 2000 garments for soldiers in 7000 hours of work.
