The Madison Music Scene LIVE is a documentary series produced by local film maker and music promoter Sarah Skloot, showcasing locally made music of all types. Intended for web streaming, MMS is innovative in its unique blend of live performance and interviews with the artists. Live filming will begin June 28th and run monthly on Saturdays through October. Each event will feature live music, Q & A with the artist(s) and previously recorded material.

The goal of The Madison Music Scene (MMS) is to promote local music of ALL genres. Madison Music Scene is interested in learning what drives local musicians to play and create. Madison has a wealth of incredible musical talent and amazing venues, but the field is pretty crowded and competition is high for the average Madisonian's entertainment dollar. Musicians at the local level – and all over the country – do not get paid what they are worth or get the recognition they deserve.
