Q14

Why won't you apply in the future?

If the funding is only part of the request but we spent a long time assembling grant application materials, it may not be worth it to apply.

Q15

What additional comments on the grant application and review process would you like to share with us?

none, thank you

Bravo and kudos all around! Such a much more reasonable application process in this new iteration. Thank you!

(One comment on THIS survey: in answering "no" to #4, I should not be required (or even able) to answer #5. The system would not accept the submission without an answer there... so results in #5 are likely to be quite skewed.)

No, there should not be a limit on the number of years an applicant can receive funding.

Q9

Did you attend your grant review session?

Yes, I attended my grant review session.

Q10

Do you have any comments about your grant review session?

I would suggest that the public comment period be clarified. I was under the impression that applicants were allowed to comment only at the beginning of the meeting, so I did not register to speak. However, the speakers were actually permitted to comment during their grant's review. I appreciated being permitted to speak on condition that I registered for comment afterward.

Q11

Common errors. Tips & Suggestions.

Q14

Why won't you apply in the future?

Q15

What additional comments on the grant application and review process would you like to share with us?

With the new Airtable format, applicants need to copy and paste all of the grant questions into another document to draft responses prior to submitting the application. However, depending on responses, additional questions pop up within the Airtable. It would be nice to have all questions ahead of time so that applicants can prepare any necessary information (particularly staff and board demographic info).

Q7

Other (please specify):

This should be on a case by case situation and based on the merit of the proposal.

Q8

Do you think there should be a limit on the number of years an applicant can be funded in order to increase funding availability for new applicants?

No, there should not be a limit on the number of years an applicant can receive funding.

Q9

Did you attend your grant review session?

Yes, I attended my grant review session.

Q10

Do you have any comments about your grant review session?

The reviewers for our grant were very kind and affirming. They made it a positive experience.

Q13

If we offer a virtual grant writing webinar in the future, what topics would you like to be covered?

I think you should explain the budget sheet, time frames for receiving awarded monies and also the funding caps. For example if no one is ever going to receive the full grant amount, this should be said up front. This will help people manage expectations, and it would also help organizations make decisions on whether or not they should apply.

Q14

Why won't you apply in the future?

I'm not sure if I apply in the future. It will depend on how successful this process turns out for us.

Q15

What additional comments on the grant application and review process would you like to share with us?

This grant required an incredible amount of work for such a small amount of money. For small organization trying to best determine where to spend their time and attention this creates a dilemma. It becomes further complicated by the fact that you don't receive the money until the end of the program.

Q14

Why won't you apply in the future?

The process is too complicated, and a smaller organization like ours needs funds for projects upfront, not after they are finished. We have a proven record of great results for a great cause, but have troubles coming up with funding, and as volunteers, have to pay a lot out of our own pockets.

Q7

In general, would you rather applicants receive full funding (resulting in fewer applicants being funded), or partial funding (resulting in more applicants being funded)?

Other (please specify):

Full funding should be the goal because otherwise it is hard to plan a project not knowing if grants will be fully funded or not so all the time applying could be lost as the project may not go forward.

Q8

Do you think there should be a limit on the number of years an applicant can be funded in order to increase funding availability for new applicants?

No, there should not be a limit on the number of years an applicant can receive funding.

Q9

Did you attend your grant review session?

Yes, I attended my grant review session.

Q10

Do you have any comments about your grant review session?

It did not seem like the person who reviewed the grant narrative did not understand it. Another reviewer had to explain what it was about. There were also questions about how the budget was presented which was surprising given that it was the same as previous years. The budget form needs to be updated and clearer explanation given to applicants on what they want to see
