Consult	Consult on rear silver maple. This tree does not appear to be hazardous. There are no visible areas with Included Bark between large branch unions. There are 3 visible cavities, however it is rare to see trees fall from cavities with healthy wound wood around them, like those seen. Although I do not feel this tree is hazardous, it should be noted that even the healthiest of large trees should be considered a liability and a risk, as trees, and mother nature are unpredictable.	40.00	1	40.00
