

On Jun 15, 2011, at 10:17 AM, Michael O'Russa wrote:

> I have no problem with Brocach opening on Monroe street and do not believe > that it's going to turn it into another Regent as far as bar crawls by > students are concerned. The student oriented bars on Regent, State & > University for the most part cater to the needs of students which is drink > specials, cheap beer and shots. I honestly do not see the average student > being very interested in $4 - $5 dollar pints of Guinness and plates of > curry chips.

>
> As was pointed out by another poster on the list, Brasserie V is a good > comparison for the demographics that Brocach will be serving. Aside from > Brasserie V's menu, they're actually a destination for beer drinkers due to > their deep knowledge and obscure selection of (mostly) Belgian taps. As far > as I know they do not have trouble with noise, drunkenness etc... We've > lived on Monroe street since early 2004 and the only problems we've had > stemmed from student house parties.

>
>
> Best -

>
> Michael O'Russa
> 2103 Monroe Street

>
>

> -----Original Message-----

> From: VilasNA@yahoogroups.com [mailto:VilasNA@yahoogroups.com] On Behalf Of > rex piper

> Sent: Wednesday, June 15, 2011 8:32 AM

> To: VilasNA@yahoogroups.com

> Subject: Re: [VilasNA] Brocach article

>

> Tom,

>

> I love the idea of another quality restaurant/bar (75/25) in the area; > Brasseri V is so popular (in a very proper and controlled way i should add) > that it can be hard to get in often! also, i should add that one only needs > to observe on a football Saturday that the local establishments are not over > crowded - seems most people prefer to be down by the action (great for > them).

>

> thanx for asking,

>

> rex piper

>

> On Tue, Jun 14, 2011 at 1:41 PM, tomturnquist <tomturnquist@yahoo.com>wrote:

>

>>

>>

>> It sounds like the "neighborhood objections" were filed by 2 people.

>>

>> Does anyone else have thoughts on this? It sounds like a great addition to >> the neighborhood to me, but it's not in my back yard either.

>>

>>

>> From: Mitchell Nussbaum <acornwithteeth@sbcglobal.net>

>> To: VilasNA@yahogroups.com

>> Sent: Tuesday, June 14, 2011 10:03 AM

>> Subject: [VilasNA] Brocach article

>>

>>

>> Article about the neighborhood objections to Brocach. There is a lot of >> drinking going on by students in their houses. I don't know what people > can >> do about that.