Community Development Authority

The Community Development Authority (CDA) was created to address the issues of affordable housing and economic opportunity for low- and moderate-income residents of the City of Madison.

As a public entity, the CDA encourages and facilitates responsible development and redevelopment in the City of Madison by forming partnerships with developers, lenders, investors, nonprofit organizations, and federal, state, and local government. The Authority's work focuses to meet the highest needs and aspirations of the people of Madison, builds upon a community's assets, and results in economic and social opportunities so that Madison communities may grow and prosper.

The CDA's mission is to make sure low-income families have safe, affordable, quality housing in communities offering empowerment, economic opportunity, and a vibrant living environment.

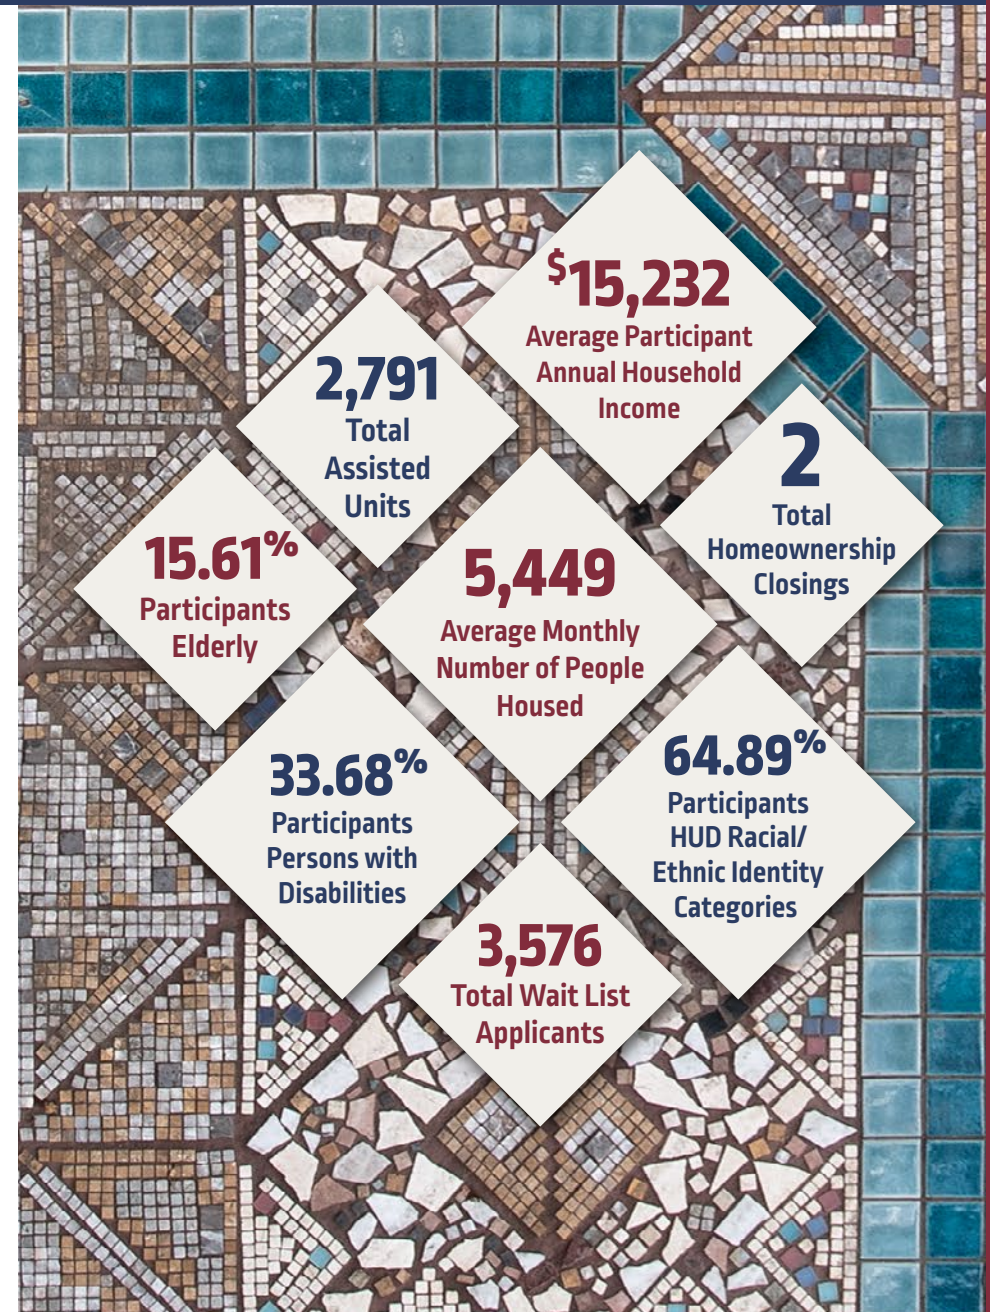

The CDA was designated as a ConnectHome agency in 2019.

Tom's Story

Tom Heneghan enrolled in the ROSS program in 2017. His primary goal was to find a full-time job with benefits. More importantly, Tom wanted to find a job he felt like he would be able to retire at. Tom may have found that place. In October of 2018, he was hired at Ho-Chunk Gaming and Casino. Tom has been working in various departments at Ho-Chunk for a year now. Tom says, "It is the nicest place I have ever worked."

CDA Redevelopment Authority

Established in 1958, the CDA's Redevelopment Authority provides economic and redevelopment services in the City of Madison. Redevelopment activities focus on strengthening neighborhoods and the construction of high-quality affordable housing.

The CDA also owns and operates 242 affordable apartments with long-term rent restrictions, as well as commercial space and home-ownership parcels.
