I read that the Transportation Commission motioned for Option 1 (Midvale bike lanes) to be designed for the Midvale Blvd Resurfacing & Safety Improvements project at their September 10th meeting. There were several public meetings to give input and then a public survey to determine which of three options were the most acceptable to residents (your customers and who you all work for). The Commission then disregarded the data collected and chose the least popular option.

This dismissive attitude has become the standard operating procedure for Madison government. My wife and I are 55 year Madisonians and we're starting to prepare our home to sell. We can't get out of here soon enough. The snotty elitist from Ithaca has made this city her own and ruined it for everybody else.

So... fuck you all as well.
