

Imagine Reindahl

Planning Update – January 2019

Planning is underway for the Imagination Center at Reindahl Park, and we're off to a great start! Neighbors, service providers, city staff, business owners, and others are tremendously enthusiastic about the Imagination Center project. Momentum is building but there is still plenty of work ahead.

This document serves as the first planning update for the Imagination Center at Reindahl Park. It is intended to provide a recap of activities over the previous three months and chart a roadmap for the Imagination Center's future. This report will give an indication of the project's progress and a glimpse at what the Imagination Center might be if built today.

During the Communities Inspiring Libraries: A Strategic Plan for Eastside Growth process, you told us how you experience Madison and how you envision it. We know the Imagination Center will be a place for our community to gather and learn. We know it will be a safe place for social interaction, civic engagement, and cultural expression. The center will also focus on improving health and expanding economic opportunities for library visitors... and so much more!

Planning for the Imagination Center is just beginning and we need your help. Contact us and read on below.

Building from the conversations that produced Communities Inspiring Libraries: A Strategic Plan for Eastside Growth, the Imagination Center at Reindahl Park relies heavily on conversation. We want you to tell us about your concerns, hopes, and dreams for your neighborhood.

To help facilitate dialogue, Madison Public Library will schedule the following:

- Drop-in office hours at a mobile office located in Reindahl Park - starting spring of 2019.
- One-on-one interviews with residents, service providers, businesses, and stakeholders.
- Events at local schools, faith communities, community centers, and assisted living facilities.
- Community conversations at neighborhood restaurants and organizations.
- Planning exercises at elementary, middle, and high school classrooms.
- Door knocking in the Reindahl community.

Look for us in your neighborhood! Translation services, accommodations, and other support is available.

Over the last three months, Madison Public Library has shared 43 conversations with 71 people. Over 53 hours of conversations have been held. Additionally, 79 students submitted “Build a Library” plans. “Build a Library” is a blank canvas for students to draw, write, and describe their vision for a library. Among the entries to-date are ideas for a device-free zone, hanging chairs, a castle, an aquarium, and many more.

Imagine Reindahl Wishlist

The Imagine Reindahl Wishlist is an overview of community engagement results to this point. The purpose of the wishlist is to provide a synopsis of the types of services and uses that have been suggested for the Imagination Center. The wishlist should not be interpreted as the end result of the Imagine Reindahl process but rather a benchmark of what engagement results indicate today. The wishlist does not include physical design elements. Madison Public Library welcomes conversation regarding the list below and any additions that come to mind. We also want to know who we could partner with to deliver these services.

- Mental Health Services
- After School Care
