ADDITIONAL POTENTIAL PROJECTS/PROGRAMS RECEIVING SUPPORT

Under current staffing levels, the Economic Development Division is unable to devote significant attention to these projects next year. These are; however, very important projects/efforts that deserve further attention by the Economic Development Division. The allocation of additional staff to the Division would make one or more of these projects possible.

Monitoring/Benchmarking Customer Service

As outlined in the 3-5 Year Strategic Economic Development Implementation Plan, this recommendation calls for a formalized approach to gather and measure customer feedback (such as through a Baldrige or similar process). Additional financial resources would be needed to retain a consultant, purchase software, etc. for this effort.

Proactive retention/expansion

As outlined in the 3-5 Year Strategic Economic Development Implementation Plan, this project would include interviewing existing Madison companies, likely working with other economic development partners, to learn more about their future retention/expansion needs. This would likely be an expansion of Thrive's Business Link Program to include more companies than currently envisioned.

Product Beta-testing in Appropriate Clusters (such as "Green Industries")

Businesses often require beta-testing of new products with potential customers. Madison is already recognized as a "green community," taking a lead in new efforts for sustainability. There may be opportunities to reach-out to companies in the growing "green" business cluster to complete their beta-testing here. Especially in cases where firms are not already familiar with Madison, this could be an effective way to introduce them to Madison, with the goal of accommodating their future expansions here.

"Green" Workforce and Business "Homesteading"

Given its central location, available transit, mixed-use neighborhoods, etc. living or locating a business within the City of Madison provides individuals with a greater opportunity to live or run their businesses in a more sustainable manner than most other locations within the region. As a way to retain/attract a quality workforce within the community and employers who consciously wish to be more "green," promoting the concept of "green" workforce and business "homesteading" could be further explored.

"Madison" Branding Campaign

Develop a campaign for branding Madison as a preferred/competitive location for business.

Promotion of Business Improvement Districts (BIDs)

In partnership with neighborhood business districts, promote the use of Business Improvement Districts (BIDs) to enhance and capture opportunities within those corridors.

Community Tours

Meet/tour other Wisconsin/Midwest communities to learn more about their economic development approaches in an effort to gain additional ideas for Madison. This could also include tours of businesses within Madison.

City Partnerships

Similar to the “Sister Cities” concept, develop relationships with U.S. cities in other regions of the Country for the purpose of generating leads of businesses looking for Midwest locations.
