

Proposal from Effigy Tree Project for consideration by MAC
March 2008

The Effigy Tree Project, a neighborhood collaboration to preserve Harry Whitehorse's Effigy Tree sculpture by casting it in bronze and returning it to its Hudson Park site, would like the assurance of a good faith agreement from the Madison Arts Commission. They would like MAC to agree that if their group raises money to fabricate the Effigy Tree in bronze, install it on the site, establish a $10,000 maintenance endowment, and organize an unveiling celebration, the Madison Arts Commission will administer the processes of project review, city approval and acceptance and will facilitate the project development.
