

TOPICAL

Hands on Wisconsin: Madison should invest in public safety, not art

PHIL HANDS phands@madison.com Jun 1, 2017

MORE INFORMATION

The city of Madison is considering a program to fund public art to help beautify the city. In the wake of several shootings, Madison would be better served to address public safety concerns, by continuing to build a diverse and community-focused police department.

Tags Editorial Cartoon Phil Hands Madison City Concern Program Wisconsin Public Safety Art

Phil Hands | Wisconsin State Journal
Editorial Cartoonist and Features Assistant for the Wisconsin State Journal