Dear Greg,

After speaking with my neighbors, Jon Woods and Peg Rooney, and reading their email, I am reconsidering my initial response to the proposed storm sewer project. Their reasoning is compelling, and I would like to add an addendum onto my first letter, stating that if the neighborhood decides to help fund the project, this might be a fair way to divide the costs. However, I think it might be more appropriate for the two households to fund the project themselves, while taking advantage of the city's offer to pay half of the cost.

Thanks so much.
