

On May 14, 2020, at 2:19 PM, Alexandra Peseri <alexa.peseri@gmail.com> wrote:

Hello Ledell,

I am e-mailing because I feel strongly that Madison's Plan Commission should support the updates to the stormwater ordinance, proposed by City Engineering staff. I work full-time in healthcare, but my other passion and much of my academic background is in environmental science. I studied environmental science at Brown, and remain up-to-date with the environmental biology community's work. I have become involved with more local policies in Madison, and honestly did not have high expectations of the 350 Madison group, which, to put it simply, is an environmental advocacy group. I am happy to admit I was wrong! I have been impressed with the work that has been done in the past year.

I grew up in a politically split family and am convinced that the only way to help both sides make informed choices is to make sure as many voters as possible and politicians understand the science behind topics like the stormwater ordinance. If you have any questions about the changes to the ordinance or any other environmental policies, please let me know. I'm not an expert, but I am happy to share what I know, and if I don't know the answer, I will most likely know who will.

Thank you,
Alexa