UDC members,

Just a quick note that at a high level, I would support the design proposed for 999 Park Street.

How often do people (and me?) complain about all the new buildings going up looking like the same old boxy design? This one seems to have a more unique flair to it. And for those complaining that it doesn't fit with the neighborhood, the current building there doesn't either and the people opposed probably won't be supportive of anything different than a couple of two storey houses.

Thanks for the work you are doing to assess all the new developments.
