Hi,

I saw the notice for a zoning request for an archival facility on state property on Troy Drive. I couldn't tell how the facility fits into the overall state site but based on the drawing, it looks like a typical "state" building - rather ugly and sterile. I wonder why it can't be built closer to the central wisconsin facility and not right on Troy Drive. There are so many upcoming demands on the landscape of the Northside (just drive by the railroad tracks and you'll see a perfect example, or all of the trees that have been removed at Harper and Woodward) and you'll see what I am talking about. We, the community, don't need to see something like this right in front of us. And, if there are going to be few visitors (per the letter of intent), it doesn't need any visible location. Especially sitting next to our community gardens. Please consider a different location on the site.
