

Sidewalks

Oh-oh, yo-yo

There are ghosts walking out here

Who used to work

Who fixed cars, cleaned houses, who cared for their children

This has never happened to me

But I see ghosts of my people walking

Out here on these streets.

Have you seen my sister, she's named after mi Abuela

She never came home after school.

Her boyfriend says, he hasn't seen her in days.

We checked in the hospitals, but they said no one by that name was there.

I see ghosts walking out on these streets

Who took them?

Last night, woe-woe yo-yo,

As I walked, I heard echo stories of these bodies who left

Everyone was watching on their phones and forgot to look at the faces

Of who cleaned, who fixed, of who walked on these streets.

Who were part of our nation

Who had a function, a purpose

Where did they go?

Oh Oh, Yo Yo

I see ghosts walkin' on these streets.
