

To Whom it may concern.

Recently, I was introduced to both Jason and Joe from mybuddies and came away very impressed. Both seem very motivated to succeed and determined to make their venture thrive. Although we only spoke briefly, I can sense an excellent business sense from both of them. With that in mind, we have set up some partnership agreements and marketing plans to help both our businesses. I believe in them both, I really hope you give them a chance to show me that my instincts were correct. In these tough economic times, I applaud them for taking the initiative of starting up their venture.

Sincerely,
