This letter includes a summary of our comments and suggestions with respect to financial, administrative and other matters that came to our attention during the course of our audit engagement. These matters are offered as constructive suggestions for the consideration of management as part of the ongoing process of improving accounting controls and other financial practices and procedures. This letter also includes a brief summary of our responsibilities regarding considerations of fraud and internal control in the performance of our audit engagement. In addition, this letter summarizes certain matters required to be communicated to you under professional standards in your oversight responsibilities for the company's financial reporting process.

Recommendations and suggestions

Review of Journal Entries

The property accountants are responsible for posting journal entries for each of their assigned properties. No one is currently reviewing the posted journal entries.

We recommend that the CEO/CFO of Horizon Management Services, Inc. or other qualified individual who does not have the ability to enter or post transactions in the accounting system review the posted journal entries each month for unusual items.

Written Policies and Procedures

We recommend that all of the accounting policies and procedures in place at Horizon Management Services, Inc. be documented in writing. A well written accounting manual will aid in the training of new employees and assist management in delegating and segregating duties. In addition, a manual ensures that proper accounting principles are being applied, similar transactions are treated consistently, and that financial reports are produced in the form desired by management.

Measurable Results.

Cash in Excess of FDIC Limits

During the course of our audit, we noted that the cash balances held at Wells Fargo in the project's name exceeded the FDIC limit of $250,000. We recommend that you frequently monitor the bank's rating to assess its condition and consider ensuring that the project's deposits in financial institutions are under the FDIC limit at all times.

Required communications

Professional standards require that we provide you with certain information related to our audit. This required communication is attached to this letter as Exhibit A.

Consideration of internal control and fraud

Fraud Considerations

As described in our engagement letter, we planned and performed our audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements were free of material misstatements, whether from errors, fraudulent reporting, misappropriation of assets, or violations of laws or governmental regulations that are attributable to the company or to acts by management or employees acting on behalf of the company. An audit is not designed to provide absolute assurance, and because we do not perform a detailed testing of all transactions, there is a risk that material misstatements may exist and not be detected by us. An audit is also not designed to detect immaterial misstatements or violations of laws or regulations that do not have a direct and material effect on the financial statements.

Internal Control Considerations

As described in our engagement letter, our audit included obtaining an understanding of internal control sufficient to plan the audit and to determine the nature, timing and extent of audit procedures to be performed. An audit is not designed to provide assurance on internal control or identify deficiencies in internal control, that is, significant deficiencies in the design or operation of internal control. However, we would communicate to you internal control matters that are required to be communicated under professional standards. Our findings are presented in the internal control communication attached to this letter as Exhibit B. In addition to matters that are required to be disclosed in accordance with professional standards, we have the following recommendation with regard to another internal control matter:

The CEO/CFO of Horizon Management Services, Inc. has full access to the company's accounting software and is an authorized check signer. Management has established compensating monitoring controls that are both preventative and detective in nature. We recommend that you continue to monitor the effectiveness of these controls.

Conclusion

We would like to thank you and your employees for the assistance provided to us in the performance of our engagement. We hope we have provided you with valuable information during the course of our engagement. We have already discussed many of these recommendations and suggestions with you, and we will be pleased to discuss them in further detail at your convenience, to perform any other additional study of these matters, or to assist you in implementing the recommendations.

Exhibit A: Required Communications

We have audited the financial statements of Burr Oaks Senior Housing, LLC for the year ended December 31, 2013, and have issued our report thereon dated February 25, 2014. Professional standards require that we provide you with information about our responsibilities under generally accepted auditing standards, as well as certain information related to the planned scope and timing of our audit. We have communicated such information in our letter to you dated October 2, 2013. Professional standards also require that we communicate to you the following information related to our audit.

Significant Audit Findings

Qualitative Aspects of Accounting Practices

Management is responsible for the selection and use of appropriate accounting policies. The significant accounting policies used by Burr Oaks Senior Housing, LLC are described in Note A to the financial statements. No new accounting policies were adopted and the application of existing policies was not changed during 2013. We noted no transactions entered into by the company during the year for which there is a lack of authoritative guidance or consensus. All significant transactions have been recognized in the financial statements in the proper period.

Accounting estimates are an integral part of the financial statements prepared by management and are based on management's knowledge and experience about past and current events and assumptions about future events. Certain accounting estimates are particularly sensitive because of their significance to the financial statements and because of the possibility that future events affecting them may differ significantly from those expected. The most sensitive estimate affecting the financial statements was:

Management's estimate of the useful lives of depreciable assets and the related depreciation methods, as described in Note A, are based on historical factors and industry practice. We evaluated the key factors and assumptions used to develop the estimated useful lives and related depreciation methods in determining that they are reasonable in relation to the financial statements taken as a whole.

Certain financial statement disclosures are particularly sensitive because of their significance to financial statement users. The most sensitive disclosures affecting the financial statements were the disclosures of the Land Use Restriction Agreement and the HOME Program Agreement in Note G to the financial statements.

The financial statement disclosures are neutral, consistent, and clear.

Difficulties Encountered in Performing the Audit

We encountered no significant difficulties in dealing with management in performing and completing our audit.

Corrected and Uncorrected Misstatements

Professional standards require us to accumulate all misstatements identified during the audit, other than those that are clearly trivial, and communicate them to the appropriate level of management. Management has corrected all such misstatements. In addition, none of the misstatements detected as a result of audit procedures and corrected by management were material, either individually or in the aggregate, to the financial statements taken as a whole.

Disagreements with Management

For purposes of this letter, a disagreement with management is a financial accounting, reporting, or auditing matter, whether or not resolved to our satisfaction, that could be significant to the financial statements or the auditor's report. We are pleased to report that no such disagreements arose during the course of our audit.

Management Representations

We have requested certain representations from management that are included in the management representation letters dated February 25, 2014. Copies of these letters are included as Exhibit C.

Management Consultations with Other Independent Accountants

In some cases, management may decide to consult with other accountants about auditing and accounting matters, similar to obtaining a "second opinion" on certain situations. If a consultation involves application of an accounting principle to the company's financial statements or a determination of the type of auditor's opinion that may be expressed on those statements, our professional standards require the consulting accountant to check with us to determine that the consultant has all the relevant facts. To our knowledge, there were no such consultations with other accountants.

Other Audit Findings or Issues

We generally discuss a variety of matters, including the application of accounting principles and auditing standards, with management each year prior to retention as the company's auditors. However, these discussions occurred in the normal course of our professional relationship and our responses were not a condition to our retention.

Supplementary Information Accompanying the Financial Statements

With respect to the supplementary information accompanying the financial statements, we made certain inquiries of management and evaluated the form, content, and methods of preparing the information to determine that the information complies with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles; the method of preparing it has not changed from the prior period; and the information is appropriate and complete in relation to our audit of the financial statements. We compared and reconciled the supplementary information to the underlying accounting records used to prepare the financial statements or to the financial statements themselves.

Exhibit B: Internal Control Communication

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of Burr Oaks Senior Housing, LLC as of and for the year ended December 31, 2013 in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, we considered the company's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing auditing procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the company's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the company's internal control.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the entity's financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected on a timely basis.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the first paragraph of this section and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses. Given those limitations, during our audit, we did not identify any deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be material weaknesses. However, material weaknesses may exist that have not been identified.

This communication is intended solely for the information and use of management, members, and others within the company, and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.
