Madison Cultural Plan

Madison's Cultural Plan supports the work of this committee in multiple places throughout the Plan including:

p. 42 - The University of Wisconsin could choose to make the Camp Randall and the Kohl Center more affordable to concert uses, meeting the pressing need for cultivation of a live music audience among students. Their taking that role, in turn, would help drive patronage of local music venue.

Entertainment industry professionals regard the entire live music industry and its venues as overregulated, and particularly so in the case of events featuring performers identified with hip hop culture. Some called for revisiting costs associated with entertainment licensing, which are barriers to both emerging musicians and to the sustainability of commercial nightclubs. See Recommendations 10, 13, 35 and 42.

p. 53 - Public transportation is essential to safe nightclub attendance since at present, alcohol and live music are frequently a mutually dependent market. Nightclubs and similar live music venues would be well served by extended hours of bus service or similar transportation options that give patrons an affordable way to enjoy an evening of music and drinking and still reach home safely. Public transportation is also a part of sustaining large public events and making them accessible to broad ranges of citizens. In particular, the reduced Metro Transit schedule. See Recommendations 37 and 38.

And from the goals:

13. The Office of the Mayor should include in its work on neighborhood centers an emphasis on establishing arts and cultural programming throughout the City. (See Findings III.D.1.a. optimizing the Use of Existing Facilities)

Goal: V.C. Strengthen Programs that Serve the Broadest Possible Audience

10. The ALRC should continue its discussion with input from the Madison Police Department, Office of the City Attorney, nightclub owners, musicians, performers, and music promoters concerning licensing structures, fees, and public safety practices. This discussion should explore the concerns of venue operators and promoters of live and electronic music on audiences, artists, and the venues themselves. If warranted, policies and practices should be changed. (See Appendix F: The Study Committee on Fairs, Festivals, and Special Events)

35. The Creative Initiatives Staff Team should promote the use of parks lands and facilities for arts and cultural events. (See Findings III.D.1.a. Optimizing the Use of Existing Facilities)

37. The Transit and Parking Commission, Madison Metro, private transportation companies and the Madison Area Transportation Planning Board (MPO) should routinely consider: weekend, evening, and late night and service industry riders; location and operating schedules of its regional arts, culture and entertainment industry resources; special events; and cultural districts in transportation planning. (See Findings III.D.5. Transportation)

38. The Transit and Parking Commission, Madison Metro, and the Madison Area Transportation Planning Board (MPO) should consult with live entertainment venue operators in crafting approaches and solutions to reduce bar time instances of intoxicated driving. (See Findings III.C.5. Transportation)

42. The Madison Arts Commission should be encouraged to research model policies and ordinances regarding incenting the use of vacant facilities for cultural uses. (See Findings III.D.1.a. Optimizing the Use of Existing Facilities)

2015 Revised Entertainment Best Practices for Venue Owners

- 1) Promoter research. If you are working with a promoter, get to know the promoter. Ask for references from previous shows. Check the references and ask if the venue encountered any issues with the event. Ask the promoter if they have general liability insurance to protect you, your venue, and your patrons. If you are not familiar with booking acts, then consult other establishments that have experience successfully hosting a wide variety of events and/or those familiar with the entertainment scene.
- 2) Research the acts. All headline acts should have a press kit which includes music samples, photos, previous show listings, and a bio. Again, talk to venues that have hosted the act to check for any previous concerns.
- 3) Offer a diverse music set. Offer different types of shows and aim for diverse demographic. Also, aim for diversity within the same bill for the evening. If you do the same genre over and over again, you may attract the same crowd which may result in future issues.
- 4) Market to a wide audience. The more diverse the crowd, the less likely you are to have problems. If you are distributing flyers, don't focus exclusively on certain areas or certain populations. Ask the promoter how they are advertising, how many people they are targeting, and what media they are using for the ads. Review the promotional material and engage the promoter in a conversation if you have any concerns.
- 5) Create your own set of rules. Your "house rules" will help set perimeters for the promoters and acts. For example, decide if there will be a dress code, and if so, make sure it is enforced consistently across ALL populations. Avoid policies that target specific populations, such as, discounts for students or ladies' nights. If applicable, consider placing your rules into a contract.
- 6) Keep a log. Document the activities that take place in your establishment. Especially take note of anything out of the ordinary and steps that your staff took to alleviate problems and in addressing problem patrons.
- 7) Anticipate your crowd. Based on your research of the acts and advertising, you should have a good idea of your crowd size. If you anticipate large crowds, staff accordingly and consider implementing policies that may prevent problems. Remember, issues can arise at any performance for all genres of music!
- 8) Security. Hire your own licensed and bonded security personnel. If working with a promoter, you may ask the promoter to contribute to the security costs. Do not rely solely on the promoter to provide security. Work closely with the promoter on a security plan. We recommend a ratio of at least 75 to 1; capacity to security.
- 9) Lights On. In the event of an emergency situation, immediately turn on all of the lights in your venue. This will not only help disperse the crowd and assist with addressing the situation, it will help police identify any persons if necessary.
- 10) Alert police if you are anticipating larger than usual crowds and encourage them to do a quick walk through.

Racial Equity and Social Justice Analysis Best Practices

RESJI Mission: Establish racial equity and social justice as core principles in all decisions, policies and functions of the City of Madison.

RESJI Priority Areas: 1. Equity in City Operations; 2. Equity in City Budgets and Policies; 3. Equity in the Community

BEST PRACTICES

► Identify groups and individuals most likely to be impacted by the decision, policy, program, practice or budget. Find ways to involve them in the analysis. City Departments should include their assigned RESJI Staff, Civil Rights Coordinator, Multicultural Affairs Committee Member, Women's Initiative's Committee Member, NRT Staff, and Latino Community Engagement Team Member.

► Conduct the analysis in the way that works best for the policy being analyzed and those affected. Some examples include: facilitated, full-group discussion; one-on-one conversations; or small group meetings

► Create accountability by sharing the analysis widely with stakeholders, decision makers and the public. Be clear about how the process occurred, including who asked for the analysis, who participated, and identified missing elements such as data or stakeholder input.

► This is not a prescriptive or linear process. Adapt it to your needs and reach out for technical assistance as needed. See information in Step 2 about technical assistance.

EQUITY

is just and fair inclusion into a society in which all (people) can participate, prosper, and reach their full potential.

POLICYLINK

RACIAL EQUITY AND SOCIAL JUSTICE TOOL

Is:	Is NOT:
A systematic examination of likely impacts of decisions, policies, programs, practices and budgets on racial and ethnic groups or low-income populations	The "answer"
Used to minimize adverse consequences, prevent institutional racism and identify new options to remedy existing inequities	To be used for political or professional gain
An intentional pause	To stop a process or slow it down beyond recognition
Best used early in the process	Only applicable at the beginning- can be used to evaluate ongoing issues or programs
To be conducted with a variety of perspectives and stakeholders whenever possible	The only way to engage stakeholders
A way to ensure racial equity impacts are at the core of decision making	Not to be used in place of other processes that are in place such as a fiscal analysis or a public safety analysis
A way to raise the voice of traditionally marginalized communities	A way to create token representation in decisions
A way to raise awareness of racial and social justice issues in the community	A guarantee that decision makers will follow the recommendations
An authentic, focused and intentional effort to consider the recommendations that come out of the analysis – transformational change	A "check box" activity that does not consider creative ways to implement the recommendations – transactional change
