

P h o t o s : M a d i s o n M u n i c i p a l B u i l d i n g A r t

- Dec 10, 2018

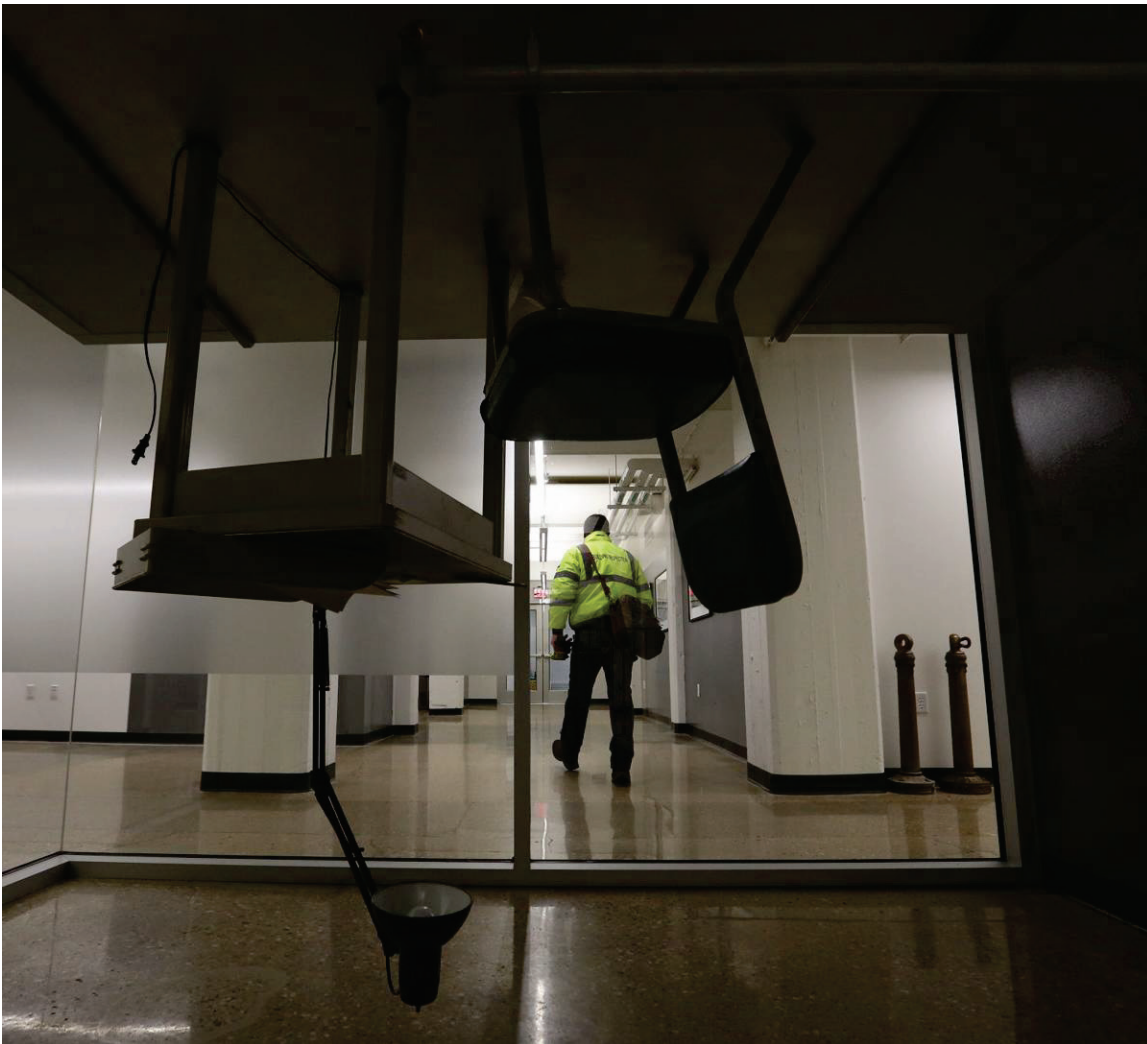

The Madison Municipal Building reopened to the public on Saturday and featured work by more than a dozen artists, including painters Pranav Sood and Katherine Rosing, photographers Tom Jones, Craig Wilson and Zane Williams, muralist Pete Hodapp and sculptor Aris Georgiades.

Most of the work at the Madison Municipal Building is on long-term loan from the artists instead of part of the city's collection. Loan terms will vary, but this means the city isn't responsible for storage and long-term maintenance. Also it pushes city arts administrator Karin Wolf to keep the art fresh.

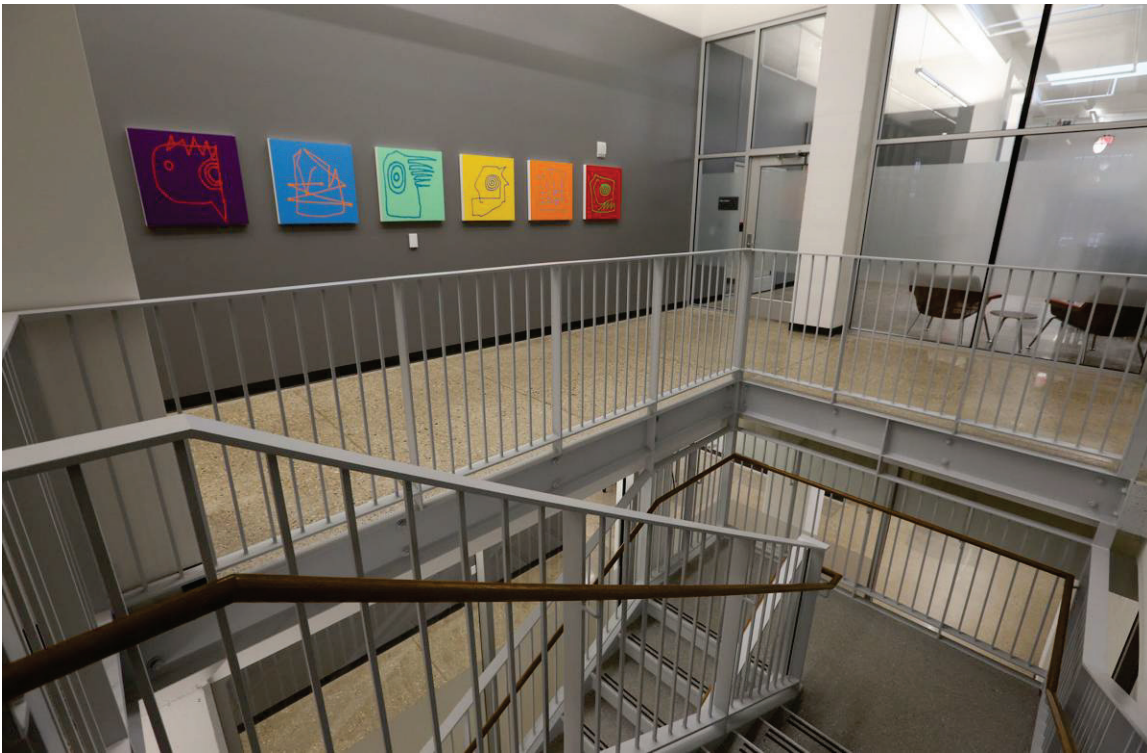

“Squad,” a 2015 series by UW-Madison Prof. Faisal Abdu’Allah, is the first show in a large second floor gallery space at the Madison Municipal Building.

Michelle Stocker

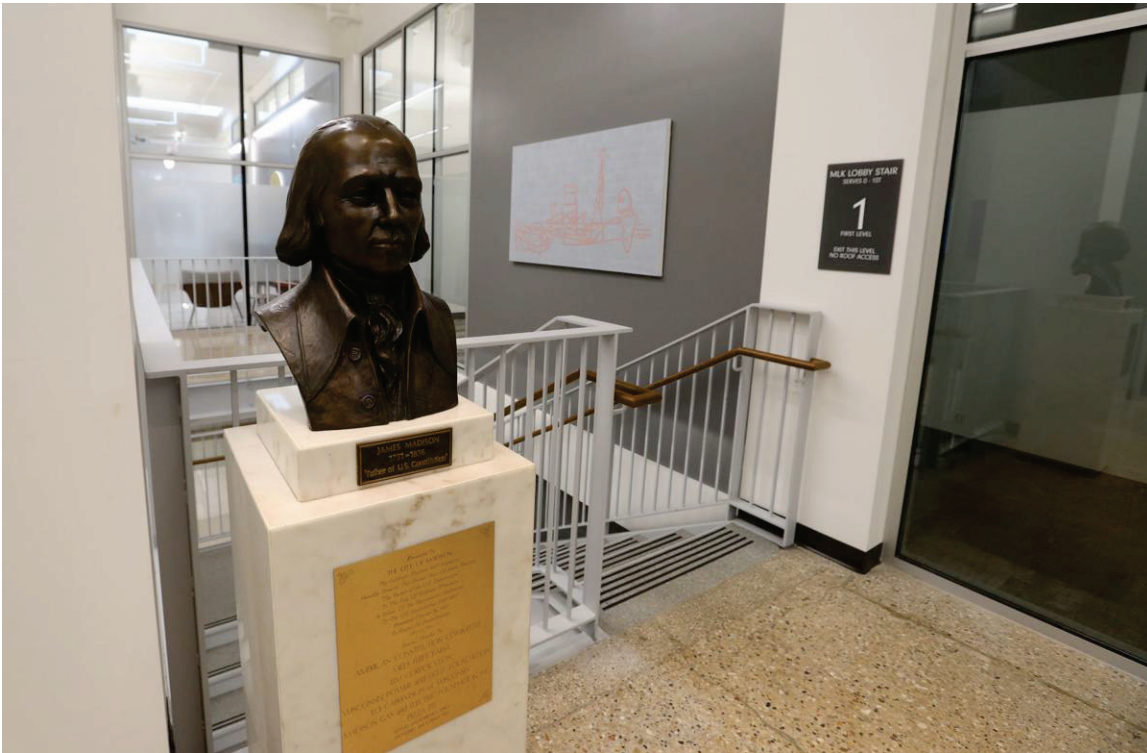

Aris Georgiades, the Stoughton-based installation artist and UW professor of sculpture, adapted a similar piece he'd made for the "Municipal" temporary installation project for the newly reopened Municipal Building.

Michelle Stocker

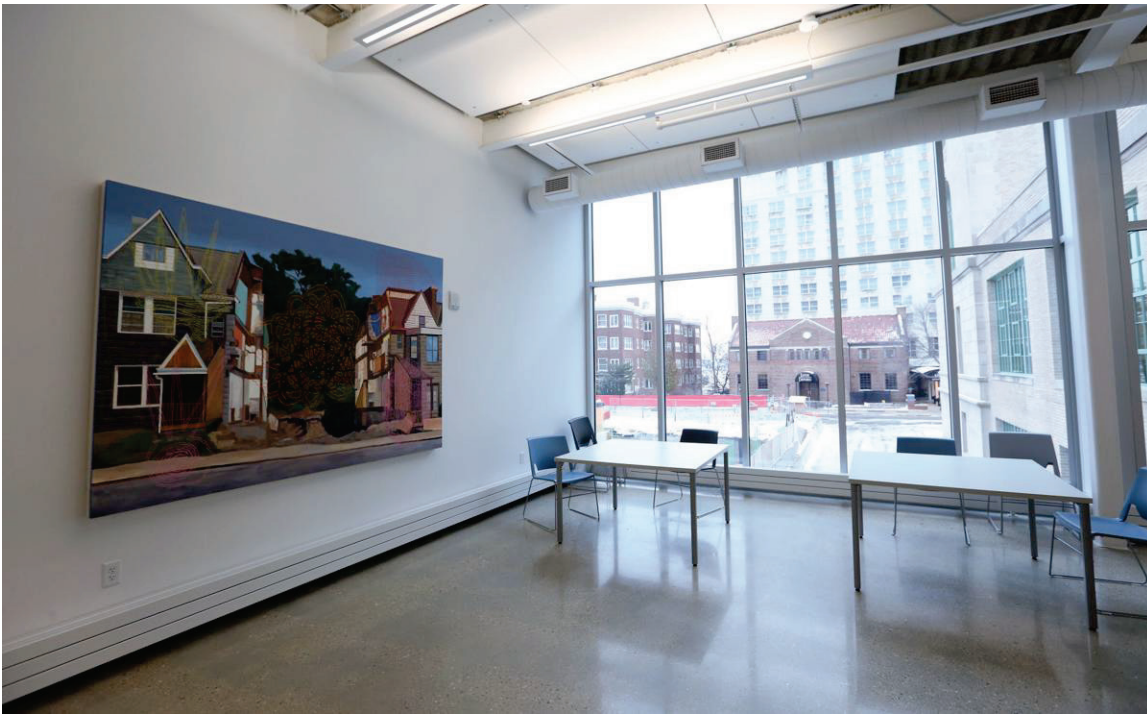

A series of works by abstract painter and UW-Madison professor Derrick Buisch line a stairway from the first floor to the lower level at the Madison Municipal Building.

Michelle Stocker

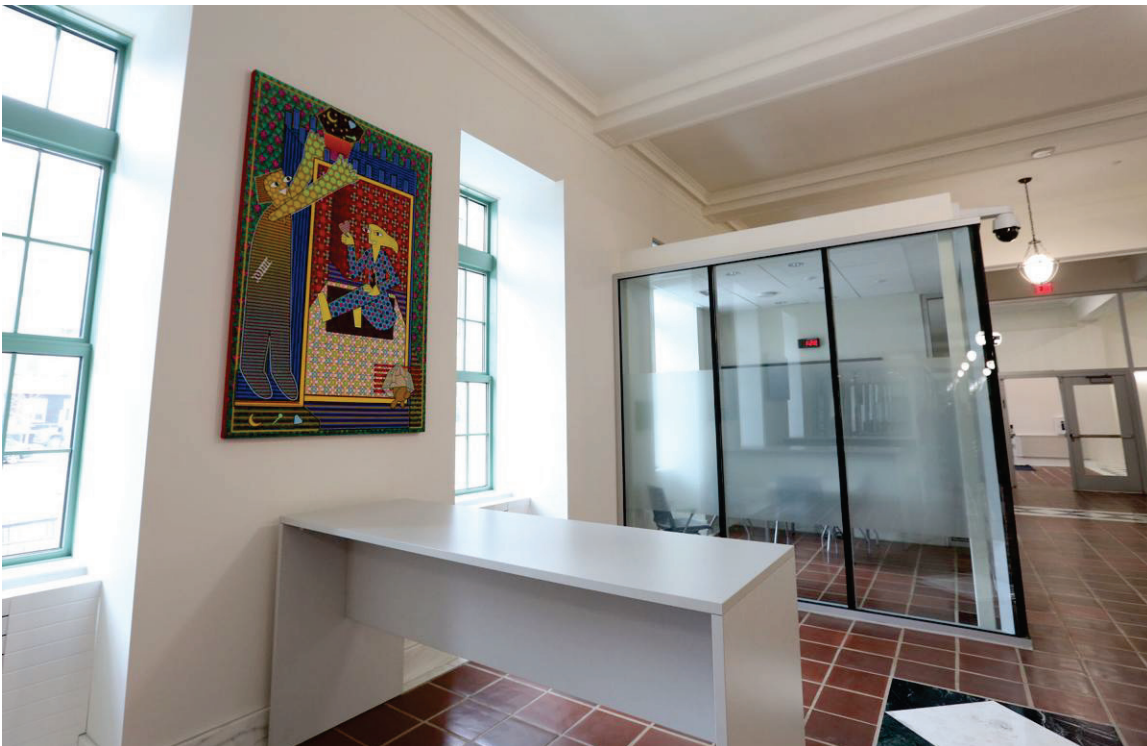

The Madison Municipal Building features a bust of James Madison near the first floor entrance.

Michelle Stocker

A large-scale artwork by Trina May Smith and Derrick Buisch is on display in a staff-only area at the Madison Municipal Building.

Michelle Stocker

Madison Municipal Building's features work by UW-Madison MFA student Pranav Sood in the lobby.

Michelle Stocker

A mural by Tim Brenner and Derrick Buisch featuring a massive sub sandwich is on display in a staff lunch area at the Madison Municipal Building.

Michelle Stocker

Peter Hodapp adapted “RubyMoon,” a wheat paste mural made for the pop-up exhibition “Municipal,” into a permanent piece for the newly reopened Municipal Building.

Michelle Stocker

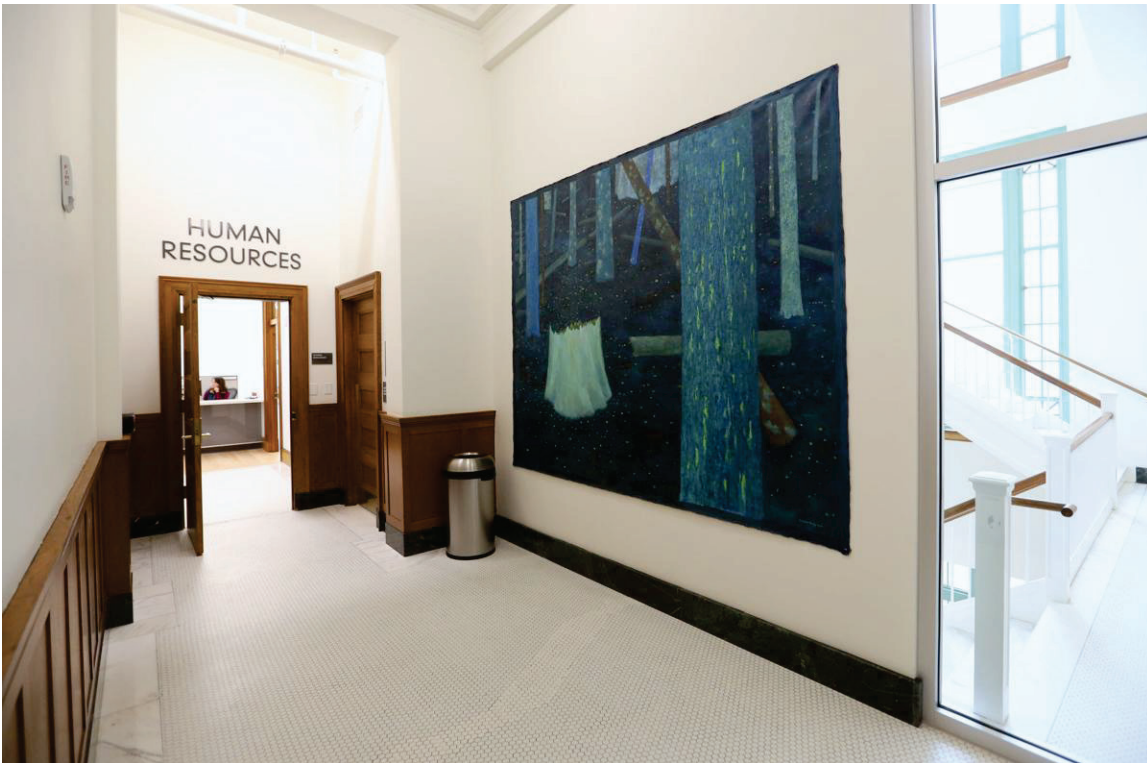

Kelly Parks Snider, Rachael Griffin and Leigh Garcia lent a series of 11 images from the “Women Against Hate United by Love” series, which was on view earlier this year at the Arts + Literature Laboratory.

Michelle Stocker

Romano Johnson, an artist from ArtWorking studios, made two pieces now hanging at the Madison Municipal Building. This one is called “Flag Bible President Obama Flowers.”

Michelle Stocker

Katherine Steichen Rosing’s “Vigil,” recently at the Abel Contemporary Gallery in Paoli, is now on view at the Madison Municipal Building.

Michelle Stocker

Mayor Paul Soglin purchased a new piece (which has since been rehung) by Daniella Willett-Rabin, on display at the Madison Municipal Building.

Michelle Stocker

Pranav Sood's piece "Who Is She?" is on display in the Madison Municipal Building.

Michelle Stocker