Thank you for your interest in helping us select the next madison police chief

Please join us for a small facilitated group conversation to discuss the role that police can or should play in our community. These conversations will be recorded and used as a way to collect public input into what we should be looking for in a new Police Chief. These recordings will be transcribed, indexed and shared with journalists, public officials, and the public via the lvn.org webpage. These small group conversations are supplemental to the more traditional large town-hall listening sessions.

What to expect from a LVN Conversation

Virtual Conversations will include a small group of 4 - 8 participants and one volunteer host. If we have less than four people register, we may reschedule the event.

Because of the small group size, we request that participants who need to cancel do so at least 48 hours in advance, or as soon as you know you will be unable to participate.

Please join on time. It is important that all participants are present for the beginning part of the conversation.

Unfortunately, if the conversation begins before you arrive, we'll need to reschedule you to attend an upcoming conversation.

Please plan to join by video if at all possible.

If you are new to Zoom, you are welcome to join us 5 minutes before the call. We will have staff on the call to provide one-on-one tech support and get you comfortable with the platform before the conversation begins. You can also visit www.lvn.org/zoom.
