WHEREAS, funding for these projects are identified as potential expenditures in the Municipal Art Fund in the 2012 Capital Budget; and

WHEREAS, the Madison Arts Commission issued a call for proposals inviting non-profit organizations and neighborhood groups to submit letters of interest in the AIPP program; and

WHEREAS, by the Friday, June 1 application deadline the Madison Arts Commission received four applications for Art in Public Places projects funding, totaling $50,500 in requests; and

WHEREAS, the Public Art Standing Committee of the Madison Arts Commission met on Monday, June 4, 2012, to evaluate the letters of interest received for the 2012 grant period; and

WHEREAS, the Madison Arts Commission invited three of four applicants to present their proposals before the full Madison Arts Commission on Tuesday, July 10, 2012; and

WHEREAS, the Madison Arts Commission reviewed the proposals and recommends funding of all three projects for Art in Public Places funding, as follows:

- VanChaMasShe Neighborhood Association at $6,329 for sculptural elements in their bird sanctuary including a winged arch, a series of water baths and an interpretive sign created by artist Mike Burns, on property owned by the Madison Metropolitan School District (“MMSD”) and operated by MSCR, adjacent to Hoyt Park. The bird sanctuary is being separately funded by the Planning Division as a Neighborhood Grant (see RES - 25850);
- Marquette Neighborhood Association, Inc. at $12,658 for their Williamson Street Gateway - The Lost and Found Tree (Working Title) by artist Erika Koivunen that will weld together found-art and steel pipe in the form of an elegant tree and be placed in the Willy Street median across from the Gateway shops with the dual purpose of welcoming residents and visitors and functioning as a traffic calming device; and
- Madison Public Library Foundation, Inc. at $6,013 for two site-specific sculptures at the new Central Library. Heath Matysek-Snyder will create “Kominy” in which furniture from the old library will be imbedded into a larger sculptural structure created from tightly stacked and secured wood; and another artwork, “Arch,” by Niki Johnson, will consist of reconfiguring the metal bookends from the former Central library into a colorful installation; and

WHEREAS, the City’s ability and willingness to fund these three projects will be contingent on the recipients’ ability to secure all necessary permissions and permits, including but not limited to permits for the placement and construction of the artwork as required by other City departments, and for the VanChaMasShe Neighborhood Association project, all necessary permission and/or arrangements with MMSD and MSCR has been secured, to the satisfaction of MMSD and the City; and
