Body

WHEREAS, the U.S. Department Of Justice Community-Oriented Policing Services (COPS) Office's Community Policing Development (CPD) grant program advances the practice of community policing in law enforcement agencies through training and technical assistance, the development of innovative community policing strategies, applied research, guidebooks, and best practices that are national in scope; and grant for "Building Trust through the South Madison Police-Community Advisory Board" to assist in developing crime prevention strategies and agency policies, as well as provide input on policing issues which will improve trust and perceptions of fairness through transparency, community outreach and problem solving; and

WHEREAS, the Department identified just this process in its 2016 Current Status & Plan for 21st Century Policing Report of MPD Efforts in Relation to the President's Task Force on 21st Century Policing; and

WHEREAS, residents, workers and business owners in South Madison neighborhoods will be engaged by MPD officers and our community partners (such as Centro Hispano, Nehemiah Center for Urban Leadership Development, Bayview Foundation Community Center and Center for Resilient Cities) to build strong relationships that will increase neighborhood-level engagement, helping residents see officers practicing and participating in community policing activities (as opposed to traditional response driven approaches) will help improve perceptions of procedural justice and fairness; and

WHEREAS, the South Madison Police-Community Advisory Board will involve people of color through targeted outreach in the Black, Hmong and Latino communities to inform police of community concerns, create a collaborative problem-solving environment and better understanding of the police function and increase legitimacy in communities of color through these procedural justice elements; and

WHEREAS, Dr. Randy Stoecker of the University of Wisconsin-Madison Department of Community and Environmental Sociology will provide support to the advisory group organizing effort through participatory action, developmental evaluation and learning organization research.
